

TOGETHER • WE • CAN • STAND • AGAINST • COVID 19

From Andi O. Santoso, an MA: Theology and Peace Studies students from Surabaya, Indonesia

Now, it is time to realize

It's not about my ethnicity

It's not about my skin color

It's not about what my religion is

It's not about my country

It's not about my nationality

It's not about my belonging

It's not about my priority

It's time to consider our vulnerability

It's time to think globally

It's time to work differently

It's time to act in solidarity

It's time to walk in humility

Seeing this pandemic as an opportunity

To come back to our dignity

To fight back our humanity, together.

—Elkhart, March 16, 2020

With Hope and Resilience: www.ambs.edu/publishing/hope-and-resilience/hope-and-resilience-resources